Why is it important?

Grippers ensure the precise and smooth transfer of paper sheets as they travel through the press. Compromising with their quality will inevitably have an impact on the precision of the sheet alignment and may cause print quality problems such as color variation and others.

Top quality down to the smallest part

Heidelberg offers a large range of spare grippers for all press types and as well as gripper bars in a complete assembly.

Specifically designed for Heidelberg presses, our grippers undergo high-precision machining and stringent quality tests in series to ensure durability and register-accurate sheet transfer.

To increase their retention force and performance, the Original Heidelberg grippers are manufactured with special surfaces and precise tolerances that distinguish them from conventional grippers.

For a precision finish, we recommend having Original Heidelberg Grippers installed by professional Heidelberg engineers.
